REDUCE BOND ISSUES

Lessen Cost of Conflict on Future Generations and on Poorer Classes,
His Plea—People Want Peace
He Declares.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, Aug. 21.—Conscription of wealth to pay for the war was urged in the senate today by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin in presenting the minority plan of the finance committee for higher rates in the war tax bill on war profits and incomes. He suggested increasing the $2,000,000,000 bill to more than $3,500,000,000 by such increases with the elimination of consumption taxes. He also urged that less bonds and more taxes be authorized.

Says Peoples Want Peace

The Wisconsin senator declared governments were demanding war, while their peoples were asking for peace, and contended that eighty-five per cent of the men drafted are protesting. Large bond issues desired by wealthy interests he contended increase the cost of living, which he asserted already imposes a fifty to one hundred per cent war burden upon the masses. The liberty loan, he said, was made possible by an "iron hand" within a kid glove and persistent advertising methods.

The pending bill, Mr. La Follette stated, provides for taxes, but seven per cent of this year's income imposes a burden upon the masses. Next year's war expenses he predicted, may reach $300,000,000,000 or $400,000,000,000 and he urged that huge war profits and incomes of wealthy persons be higher tax rates be made to bear the burden of the war. Urging a larger proportion of taxes, the Wisconsin senator said: "It is a part of the history of all great wars that wealth has been the main source of taxation and the maximum of loans, while the poorer classes have desired maximum of taxation and minimum of loans and this difference is accentuated in times of war. Wealthy persons are since war profits and excessive income taxes are being forced by taxation to contribute some portion of the revenues which war makes it necessary to raise.

Favored Classes Profit.

"Too many people for the comfort of the ruling classes in the waiting armies of Europe, are asking today why they should give their all to the government from which they have received so little, while the favored classes pass through the furnace of war unscathed."

"The billions of our people's money which we are now smilingly tossing into the furnace of the European war were all we had to consider, the question would not be so serious, if this war had lasted another year or two years, think what it will mean to the financial resources of this country. Remember that we have not yet burned up a single dollar's worth of powder. We have not yet expended a single shell, the cost of some of which exceed the annual income of the average man. It is not improbable that the entire income of all the people of the country estimated at $300,000,000,000 will not equal the money cost of the second year of this war. We must face these facts, and realize the true situation of our financial policy by an adequate and just system of taxation at the beginning."

By keeping down taxes and increasing bonds, Senator La Follette said the masses are "being mortgaged to the money-lenders."

Loans to the allies, the senator said, may not be repaid. Certainly not for many years after the war. Russia, he said, is in the throes of a revolution, and "Italy, if reports are correct, is on the eve of one."

"Even England and France," he added, "will be in no position to repay loans for a long time, and if this war should last for several years, what political transformation must come over this country in Europe, no one can foretell."

Possibility of bread lines this winter, because of the high cost of living he pictured thus in conclusion:

A Rebuke to Congress.

"Always remember that the high prices already upon us, have taxed the common people of this country for support of this war to a much greater extent than the wealthy would be taxed if every dollar of the income of the members of that class were taken by taxation. When bread lines shall be a familiar sight in every city of this land as they are bound to be if the present price of the simple necessities of life is maintained during the coming winter when coldness and hunger are daily visitors in many thousands of homes, which have known only comfort heretofore, a condition certain to exist during the coming winter months unless relief from present prices can be found, it will be small satisfaction I think, to the members of this congress to realize that they have contributed to the want and sufferings of the mass of people by refusing to place even an approximately fair proportion of the financial burden of this war upon the rich."

Senator La Follette delivered his speech in his usual vigorous style and several times pointed out senators talking together and asked them to stop, saying it caused him annoyance. His address was made to a considerable number of senators remaining in the chamber and he was seldom interrupted.

MAKE ARRANGEMENTS
FOR THE HANDLING
OF NATIONAL ARMY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—Arrangements for handling the draft army are now being made at the office of the adjutant general. The federal government has sent a traffic manager here who will have charge of transporting the troops to the rendezvous camps.

The federal government has sent a deposit of $38,000 here for meeting certain expenses of the draft boards. There were 105 local draft boards in the state and five appeal boards. Five men are members of each of these boards. The men are paid four dollars a day for their services. Statements are now coming in from all of the local draft boards of the state. On the average the members of the draft boards in the northern part of the state were busy six days and are drawing $24 in payment for services. In the southern part of the state, where the districts were more heavily populated, as in Milwaukee, the payment to the members of the draft boards is running near to $30. It is now estimated at the adjutant general's office that the average for the state for each member of the draft boards in payment of services will be approximately thirty-five dollars each.

Besides this there are expenses of printing, the transportation of troops and other charges which will make the expense high. The number of drafted men required under the first call is 12,878. The draft appeal boards are now busy with their work and the expense of these boards cannot be estimated at the present time. Those who are in a position to know are doubtful whether the first allotment of $38,000 will be sufficient. A score of clerks have been hired under the direction of the federal government for the copying of draft lists. All of the expenses of the draft are being paid by the federal government.

Enemy Makes Counter Attacks in the Verdun Sector.—Italians Take 10,000 Prisoners on the Isonzo Line.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, Aug. 21.—Canadian troops around Lens launched another attack on the western environment of the French mining city at 4:30 this morning, reports the Reuter correspondent from the British headquarters in France.

The attack developed into one of the most desperate hand to hand battles of the war.

When the Canadians went over the top they saw masses of gray figures advancing toward them in the thick haze. Both sides had planned the attack at the same moment.

Fifteen minutes after the clash came the Germans were making their last stand on the parapet on their trench. They then retreated rapidly.

Counter Drive at Verdun.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The counter attacks of extreme violence were made by the Germans last night in an effort to recapture positions taken in the French offensive. The Reuter correspondent reports that the Germans were driven back with heavy losses. The number of prisoners now exceeds 6,000. The German attacks were especially severe at Avocourt wood and north of Caubert.

Attacks also were made by the Germans without success on the Alsace front, near Cerny and Hurtelbe.

Battle Continues.

Berlin, via London, Aug. 21.—The battle before Verdun has not yet ended, the German general headquarters said announced today. This morning fresh engagements developed at various places. The statement adds:

"Our troops and leaders anticipate a favorable conclusion of the battle. The German general headquarters and the French general headquarters are in a position to conduct a hand fighting and by counter attacks the French were driven back almost everywhere."

The Italians, supported by floating and fixed batteries and monitors, are marching toward success which, the statement says, is becoming delineated in spite of undiminished enemy resistance.

On Rumanian Front.

Petrograd, Aug. 21.—British Admiralty, cables from Petrograd, says German forces are making vigorous attacks on the southern Rumanian front, the war office announcement of today says. Stubborn resistance is being offered by the Russians and Rumanians, who, however, were forced back at several points.

On the Caucasian front, where the Russians took the offensive, a further large advance has been made, a series of villages being captured.

THOUGHTS TO THINK ABOUT

Tact turns the scale in your favor if you weigh all that you say and never say anything you don't mean.

Fate knocks you down now and then, but asks you to get up again: the man with a sob will not find a job though he thinks the world should give it.

Smiles make the world seem good, but you cannot smile unless you see all as good; hate is soon conquered by the good but until then smiles are not understood.

INDIANS PREDICT RED SOX COLLAPSE

According to members of the Cleveland American League club, the Indians are in a state bordering on collapse. The pennant, they believe, cannot go to Boston this year, and they predict a complete reversal of form by the club.

One member of the Indians put it like this: "The Red Sox are failing to take advantage of things they would have gained to their credit a year ago. The Indians are not hitting and the fielding is getting ragged. In addition Ruth is the only consistently effective pitcher. Some folks are inclined to lay a great deal of stress on George Foster's one-hit game against us recently, but the fact of the matter is we should have beaten him badly. Every ball he was driven hard, but always all safety at second. Foster's pitching will not give the Red Sox much help, regardless of what you hear. Whether the trouble is due to squabbling on the club I can't say, but I believe the collapse of the Red Sox, things just as startling have happened, but they are rare occasions. The Red Sox are good enough to be in the fight all the way.

With the pitching staff that graces the pay roll in Boston the Indians would have a pennant possibility without any argument. And, if the United Sox and Red Sox were to switch pitching staffs the Red Sox would undoubtedly glide toward the bottom.

A Philadelphia is trying hard to beat about a baseball game that will send all the old Athletics of the game to the field against John McGraw's great team of Giants.

Collins, Baker, Barry, Plank, Combs, Murphy, Hendrix, Jannock, and Shanks are still playing ball. McInnis, Strunk, Schang and Bush are still with the Athletics. The game promoter wants to give the proceeds to the Red Sox.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Alvin McCarthy of the Pirates is probably out of the game for the rest of the season, due to an attack of pneumonia poisoning which has left him greatly weakened. Report from Pittsburgh is that he will be howling for the end of the season, and is permitted to go home and take it easy. Oh, yes, ball clubs are tough propositions to work for.

Charley Shotton of the Red Sox has followed the lead of his manager, Jack Barry, and enlisted in the navy reserve. Enlistment in his case, however, may not involve him from service under the draft, as some of the ball players fanned. Bill Jacobson of the St. Louis Browns enlisted in the navy reserve, but he decided to report for examination as a conscript just the same.

Just when Connie Mack thought he had his Athletics rounded out into winning shape here go Wynn Noyes and Ray Bates, quitting the team to join the army. Both drew high marks in the draft, but decided to enlist anyway. It's a big sacrifice for them, too, for after disappointments they are making good as major leaguers and their futures appear bright. Ray Bates is the sort that can be called heroes.

Pitcher Al Demaree does his own trading. At least he negotiated the trade that sent him from the Phillies to the Cubs and when he heard that Manager Mitchell had taken a shine to Pete Kilduff and that McGraw would like to have an extra pitcher, he got busy and succeeded in engineering the swap that sends him back to the Giants and probably into more world's series money. Kilduff loses out on the world's series, but he will be satisfied because he thinks he will have a chance to play regularly with the Cubs. Marvel: A player who would be in the game regularly in preference to sitting on the bench and sharing in world's series purse. This Kilduff must really like to play ball.

Jack Scott, the young pitcher turned admiral, by Pittsburgh who later came to the Yankees in the South-eastern league, has been sold by the Nashville club to the Boston Nationals. He has been caught in the same trap, but he is not a leaguer and the sale is conditional on him remaining in baseball.

Chicago admirers of Adam Dohas have been cheering him on in the series between the Cubs and the Yankees. The youngster got his start with a Knights of Columbus team in Chicago and has a large circle of admirers in that order. He is a big fellow, but he is a ball player, judged by his work with the Pirates.

It seems that when John McGraw released Jim Thorpe to the Athletics, he was not the only one who was not to use the Indian. The Athletics should have first called on his services. But when McGraw's offer was passed, saying his out-of-field was full.

The players on the New York National league team, when Pete Kilduff was traded to the Chicago Cubs for Al Demaree, got together and decided that Pete should have a share in the pennant, in case the Giants got in the world's series. Just the same, it's a world's series, just the same, the National commission has a rule against it.

The Brooklyn club claimed Catcher Ernest Krueger was asked. The Giants, when the players were asked, the release of the young catcher put McGraw under the player limit, so he took on Jimmy Smith as a substance infielder. Signing of Krueger still leaves the report that by Brooklyn is to be given his release.

That was a good joke about Sherwood Magee being headed for the minors. He has some major league club did not claim him. Sherwood has served his time as a major leaguer and any

NEXT SUNDAY TO BE "BOOSTER DAY" FOR JANESVILLE CARDS

Local Team Will Take On Jefferson In Battle For Second Place—Need City's Financial Support

Next Sunday is to be Booster Day at the Fair Grounds ball park, when the Janesville Cardinals will play the second place in the Central State League. Although the Waterbury Goshawks are in first position by a comfortable margin, the winner of next Sunday's game at Janesville will have a fair chance to overtake the League leaders.

The Cardinals look fit to take the measure of any club in the league, and it is rumored that they even entertain a secret but confident belief in their ability to topple the Beloit Fairies in a post season series which is being arranged for. The Cardinals have won seven and tied one of the last eight games played.

Despite the cheery outlook for the team as regards ability to meet all comers and to put up a superb brand of ball, those who are piloting the club are encountering some exceedingly rough seas over the financial side.

The result is that if the Cardinals are to continue in the League and to play the same high quality of base ball as they have been dispensing in recent games, they must have the loyal support of every lover of the team.

The straitened circumstances in which the club finds itself give occasion for the Booster Day game. Admission tickets for this game will be fifty cents, with no additional charge for the grand stand, and an effort is being made to dispose of the grand stand seats during the remaining days of this week.

A good, large attendance and some good, hearty boosting will help to keep the team keyed up to the gritty game that will be played.

SUGGESTS A DELAY IN OPENING SCHOOLS

Superintendent Antidei Proposes Plan Which Will Help Solve Farm Labor Problem.

In a statement to the district boards of the Rock county rural schools, Superintendent Antidei suggests that the opening of the fall term of school be delayed for a week or two in order to allow the older children to help with the farm work, thus solving partially the farm labor problem. The time can be made up during the year by cutting down the length of the mid-year vacation periods. Superintendent Antidei's statement to the boards follows:

"There is a great scarcity of farm help in many places, and in some districts there are large children who are very much needed at home just now. It will not be well for such districts to have school begin a week or two later than usual, and make up the time by having shorter vacations in the winter. This is a matter for each district to decide according to the conditions existing there. We earnestly recommend that such a plan be followed wherever it will help out with the farm work.

"This will be much better than to start school early and have the older scholars out of school for some time at the beginning of the term. It may lose too much in that way, and also break up all the school work badly when they finally start in later after school has commenced.

"It would also be best to have a few days of vacation at such times as the older children are needed greatly at home to help with such crops as tobacco, corn, beans, etc. It is poor policy to keep school running when half of the children are out for any good reason. More school time and money are wasted in this way than from almost any other cause.

"If there is any such condition in your district, will you act now? Then encourage the older children to attend regularly when school starts."

ET TU BRUTE?

China has declared war upon Germany and Austria. In fact, China has gone so far as to suggest that it send a few thousand of its surplus soldiers
over into Europe to help the allies fight. China is a sleeping giant. It does not know its power or its strength; when it does it will become a dominant feature in this world's governmental circles. Austria politically but firmly insists that China has not declared war upon the dual monarchy. In fact they seek to impress the Chinese government that their carefully worded manifesto is all a mistake and not to be taken seriously. This is even more an affront to China than the actual starting of hostilities might be. The average Chinese diplomat is more cunning and subtle than a serpent, and its soldiers more fearless and braver than even the savage tribesmen of the Arabian plains. China is a vast country and one more enemy added to the central powers, particularly designed to strike the "huns" even though they have included Austria and Hungary.

Now comes word from Athens that in looking over the papers of the late King Constantine of the ancient kingdom of Greece, papers have been found that at the opening of the presented world war it was decided that Constantine was to remain neutral as the best aid to Germany. The king so agreed even though the Greeks themselves would have preferred to have gone into the strife on the side of the allies at the start. Now they are in the war, now they are preparing to show their skill as fighting men, it is interesting to note that Austria is weakening. In fact, Austria alone seems to realize that the end is coming and that peace is necessary if their nation is to be preserved in its entirety. Bulgaria has shot its bolt and while it drives its lines ahead against the Rumanian-Russian forces, it pauses to look back over its shoulder to see if the Greeks are coming.

We also learn that the peace suggestions of the Pope, while doubtless given in good faith, yet timed with the Teutonic Austrian brand of a final come to the struggle, will not be taken up or any definite answer given until the allies' representatives have held a conference and decided what to do about it and what to say in reply. That it will not be acceptable in its present form is most certain. No matter how much the United States
decries the war and desires peace,
still peace without some definite precaution against a future struggle when the central powers had recuperated, is an impossibility. To give back the colonial possessions, to place Germany on the same commercial and financial basis as before it began its ill-timed attack upon France, would mean simply postponing the final settlement
until some later date when Germany would again break forth and become rampant.

TIP TO TRAITORS.

To discuss terms of peace while that autocracy is still in the saddle and triumphant is to discuss the betrayal of democracy. To find fault with the aims of our government, to heckle the president, to stand back with half-hearted pliancy of grudging support, always combined with an "if"
or a proviso which emasculates them,
is to give aid and comfort to the enemy and to strike our own army in the back.

This is an excerpt from an address of Chief Justice J. B. Winslow of the state supreme court in an address at Milwaukee, August 15th. It is worth considering. It is worthy of careful thought. Justice Winslow is a man whose words weigh his words before making public. His address, given in Milwaukee, was most carefully thought out and as much attention was paid to minute details as the justice would give to a legal decision,
hence its intrinsic value.

Judge Winslow issues a word of warning to the over-enthusiastic citizen who would accept peace regardless of what such action would result in the future to the world at large.
Peace is desired, but not a compromise peace that would leave the present struggle practically a draw, would permit Germany and Austria to regain their poise and prepare for a second world struggle that would complete the rule of what is left of Europe to satisfy the craving for world power.

When peace comes it must be a peace that will be lasting and not one that will be imperfect and partial. It must mean the rehabilitation of Belgium, of Serbia, of Montenegro, the driving out of the Turks from European soil forever, the opening of the Dardanelles, the independent kingdom of Poland and a re-organization of the social conditions of the central powers that will end the rule of the military party. In other words, the claws of the tiger must be clipped and trimmed to meet conditions that will exist in years to come.

FLOURDING.

"It is reported from Berlin that Dr.
Richard von Kuhlmann, the new foreign secretary, is not in sympathy with the U-boat campaign, and has strong convictions on the economic necessity of a good understanding with Great Britain. An old cabinet has resigned, or more correctly been dismissed, and a new one appointed,
with this exception overwhelmingly bureaucratic even with some pretense of conciliating the Reichstag. The general effect is one of reasonableness
in the sense that the change may be used in neutral countries and in the United States as evidence of a willingness to approach the subject of peace," says an eastern exchange.
"But there has been no real change.
This cabinet, like all its predecessors,
is not responsible to the Reichstag,
and can be overruled or dismissed by the Kaiser. So far as peace negotiations are concerned, it is one more of numerous attempts to get something for nothing, to put the allies and especially this country in the situation of suing for peace by the statement of the terms they would be willing to accept, while Germany states no terms, and merely asks, in effect, for a conference which could be prolonged at her pleasure, with an armistice which would enable her to replenish her resources, and neutralize the damaging effects of the allied blockade.

"There is another significant change
in the appointment of a new food dictator, and there can be little doubt that the failure of the harvests is not alone responsible. It is clear, from the intemperate comments of the German newspapers on the American embargo, that the closing of the neutral channels of supply is already making itself felt. From our own experience of the action of war profiteers, we can be certain that the traders in Holland, Switzerland and Scandinavian countries, to protect their own skins, shut down promptly, and have already established a condition which means something like famine in the comings of the allied blockade.

It will be noted that the attack of the German newspapers takes the form of sympathy with the neutrals
for our oppressive treatment of them.
This press comment is so general that it must have been inspired. It indicates the hope that Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and perhaps Spain can be induced, by appeals to our humanity, to secure the necessary food for the German army, which by the accounts of all prisoners is already on short rations. It will be seen, therefore, that the establishment of an apparently conciliatory cabinet is an obvious card to play at this time.

"Nobody need be deceived. The great German machine is cracking and is liable to go to pieces. But we should rather redouble our efforts because whatever the German government has learned, whatever the Kaiser knows in his heart, the German people have not yet learned their lesson. They must be beaten in the field, and know that they are beaten and why they are beaten. No lasting peace is to be had on any other terms."

Janesville is to have a Home Guard organization and the only delay in the formation is awaiting definite word from the adjutant general's office as to what the age limits and requirements are to be. At present there are a hundred and twenty-two names on the list that has been filed with the application for such a military unit.

The State Fair boosters who paid
Janesville a flying visit Monday night expressed themselves as much interested with their reception and entertainment. They proved to be a party of gentlemen and their visit brings Milwaukee into closer touch with Janesville and the state at large.

These army cantonments are going to be replete with special attractions
for the recruits in way of recreation.
Plans to make their forget they are Uncle Sam's men by holding free shows and athletic contests has been found to be beneficial in the training.

Circus day always brings with it the crowds of curious who watch with interest the wonders of the parade and enjoy the pink lemonade and peanuts
just as much as they did many years ago when they saw their first "big show."

Be sure that all your doors and windows are locked when you go to the circus tonight and when you retire.
Some way or other circuses always bring to town a lot of undesirable who prey upon the unwary and reap
a harvest that they did not sow.

Very shortly Camp Douglas will be depleted of its citizen soldiers and they will be on their way to the southland for the completion of their intensive training as members of one of the greatest fighting machines this world has ever seen.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

—ROY K. MOULTON—

Of all pleasant things occurring,
Of all happenings we treasure,
None is rapturous and stirring,
None is always such a pleasure,
Oh, it makes us hum a ditty,
Dancing gaily through the grasses,
In the countryside of life,
When a pretty maiden passes.

How delightful, how alluring,
How the orb is gaily gleaming,
When the moment is enduring,
With an ecstasy it's booming,
Though we're seldom off our nut,
Simply duffy o'er the lasses,
Who can fail to feel a flutter
When a pretty maiden passes?

When we're palsied, halt and hoary,
When in later years repining,
When all life has lost its glory,
And our spirits are declining,
Though the hope is rather risky,
Yet we hope we'll don our glasses
And be feeling young and frisky
When a pretty maiden passes?

When a sentiment's so cheery,
So beguiling, any man's a Dolt if it should make him weary,
So we'll add another stanza;
Why, the notion is appealing
To all ages, to all classes,
Oh, you know that pleasant feeling
When a pretty maiden passes!

Things We Like to Put Off
Tight shoes.
Creditors.
The dentist.
Rowdy passengers.
Writing letters.

True.
While men compete for fame and
cash,
And of them all the world is full,
Some seem to know they need more Push,
But many more will pray for Pull

Noises.
An urchin squalling in the night
Doth hardly fill us with delight.
The howling of a ribald cat
We're very seldom pleased with that.

The phonograph our neighbor owns
But only riles us with its tones.

The grinding of the dentists wheel
Somehow unnerves us a great deal.

Yet worst the office boys who choose
To whistle and wear squeaky shoes.

The Male Toilet.
Lots of men who think war must be awful will go into a barber shop willingly and climb up into the barber's chair to suffer without a whimper.
After the barber has you will pained

in with towel entanglements he starts a line of atrocious that are as good as anything the war has to offer.

A man with a rugged constitution can spend an hour and a half in the barber's chair and come through it with a whole skin. If he has no broiled arches, poor teeth or heart trouble he may be able to take all the barber can sell him without breaking down in health.

With only the customer's head exposed the barber's work has its limitations, but he makes the most of it. If there is anything that hasn't been done to your head when he is through it's because he'd rather do something else. The face is beaten, pulled, wiped, scraped, picked, rubbed and jerked. The scalp is soaked, scorched, boiled, dried and brushed. Others wrap a towel around their foreheads and jab and poke
both ears.

If you are able to stand on your feet after this the barber's accomplish sneaks up from behind and jars
you with a whack of the whiskbroom.
For ten cents he will let you hit
this is cheaper than hitting him back and paying a five dollar fine.

The Daily Novelette

WITHOUT A FRAME.

(This week's mystery.)
Save for a college banquet on the first floor, a grand opera performance
on the second and a children's party
on the third, the building was in dead silence.

In a corridor on the fourth floor
Sidwell Flocks knelt outside room 413
and peered through the key hole.
Suddenly, without taking his eye
from the key hole, he removed a bunch of keys from his right hand trouser pocket and threw them far up the corridor.

At a sudden jangling sound Sidwell
Flocks' right hand flew to his hip pocket.

"It was only the keys landing," he thought, and replaced in his hip pocket what he had drawn from it,
his handkerchief.

He rose, recovered the keys, placed them in the top pocket of his coat,
and again peered through the key hole into room 413.

"I have the keys!" he called loudly,
and with a sudden gesture flung open
the door and sprang into the room.
With one exception, it was empty.
The exception was himself!

RUSSIAN LECTURER WHO SPOKE IN CITY EXECUTED AS A SPY

Lieutenant Swartzkopensky, "Champion of the New Russia," Reportedly Shot as German Spy.

One of Janesville's spies has been shot. Lieutenant Swartzkopensky, the tall Russian who attracted considerable attention in the city last March, is reported to have been executed as a spy in England. He was deported to England from this country when it was learned that he was working in the interests of the German government, according to cable reports.
Lieutenant Swartzkopensky, who spoke before the high school and who also addressed an audience at the Baptist church on the evening of March 19th, represented himself as a former bodyguard of the Czar, an exile to Siberia, who had subsequently escaped, and a champion of the new Russia, which had attained its leadership just at the time Swartzkopensky visited in this city.

In his guise as a wandering lecturer, he traveled to all parts of this country and gained access to many places where most strangers would have been barred. His distinctive appearance and singular mission in this country soon attracted attention and federal secret service men convinced themselves of his association with Germany as a spy, and he was consequently deported to England, where he was subsequently executed.

FRIGHT AND EXERTION KILLED YANDRY'S SON SAYS CORONER'S JURY

INQUEST CONCLUDED THIS MORNING AFTER JURORS ARGUE AND BALLOT FOR HOUR—REFUTE FOUL PLAY THEORY.

DR. PARKER SUSTAINED

Clinton Physician Substantiated in His Belief As Given Sheriff and Coroner on Thursday Morning.

The coroner's jury sitting on the case of the death of five year old Willie Yandry, son of Alfred Yandry, town of Bradford farmer, found dead Thursday morning in an old cupboard in an abandoned tenant house on the farm, argued and balloted nearly an hour in the Rock county municipal court chamber this morning. Their verdict was that the lad came to his death "by undue suffocation and fright." By their verdict the jurors gauged their decision almost solely by the expert testimony of Dr. Wayne A. Parker, of Clinton, who testified that the father relative to the latter's suspicion towards George Simpson, farm hand, who left the place before the death of the lad, came to get up and go to work too early in the morning.

Physicians Say Suffocation. The gist of the evidence offered by the father, who viewed the body when it was removed from the cupboard of Coroner Dr. Frank Ryan and Sheriff Robert B. Whipple, and by Dr. Wayne A. Parker, of Clinton, who conducted an autopsy Friday, was that the lad's fright at his close confinement caused his over-exertion. Even though under ordinary circumstances he could have been able to live, the strain produced rapid heart action, his breath came more rapidly and kept continually getting shallower and the lungs finally were refused to expand any more.

The father testified that the daughter, Beatrice, three years old, told him a few minutes after he had opened the cupboard compartment that a man hit William and he fell over dead.

Jurors Question Father. The jury was much interested in the use of the word "dead," and questioned Yandry as to the ability of the lad to realize and to know the difference. From subsequent replies to the questions of District Attorney Stanley G. Dunwiddie and of Coroner Ryan, together with many asked by the jurors, it was evident that the jury was little impressed by the remark of Yandry's daughter.

Neither did they seem to deem it necessary to heed to any great extent the testimony regarding George Simpson, the farm hand who left the Yandry farm to go to Emerald Grove and work a week before the accident occurred.

Sheriff Whipple's testimony relative to his tracing Simpson on the afternoon and evening of the disappearance exonerated the man.

Little Beatrice was at the inquest with her father. She is the youngest person ever subpoenaed in Rock county. Even though she could have offered testimony it could not have been used one way or the other in the case as the law decrees that no person under four years of age can testify.

Clara Dugan, daughter of Andrew Dugan, told Beatrice crying when she, with her father and her sisters and brothers were with Mr. Duoss when he returned to the Yandry farm yard a wagon he had borrowed from the Dugans, less than a hundred feet away from the cupboard in which the youngsters had imprisoned themselves in their play.

The jury was out over three quarters of an hour. Two held out for a verdict giving the verdict of death as the result of "unknown causes." The four remaining jurors were unanimous in their verdict of death as the result of suffocation. Five ballots interspersed with no end of argument were necessary before the contrary pair were convinced.

Can Probe Further. Even now it is possible for further investigation. The jury was composed of Will Finley, L. G. Green, Glenn Snyder, A. H. Hartman, Thomas E. Welsh and Charles Dickinson.

Falls from Car; Fingers Severed. C. D. Barnard, Evansville Tobacco Dealer, Suffers Painful Accident This Afternoon.

PLAN NEW CITY FOR THE ROCKFORD CAMP

Rock County People Interested in Project as Their Husbands, Sons and Brothers Will be Trained There.

Rock county residents will be interested in the project to establish a model city just across the Rock river from Camp Grant, the army cantonment at Rockford, where the wives and parents of the enlisted men can be trained while the period of training is going on for the sterner members of the families. With approximately seven thousand Wisconsin soldiers in the permanent camps, all parts of the state, with the exception of those living in Brown, Calumet, Door, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Racine, Sheboygan, Waukesha and Kenosha counties, will train at Camp Grant. Men from counties listed above are assigned to Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Mich.

Whether the reassignment of Wisconsin men to the Rockford training camp will mean that newly-appointed Wisconsin officers who have completed their training at Camp Sheridan and have been assigned to Rock Custer will be shifted to Rockford is not known as yet. However, if they are, some of them probably will be reassigned to the camp nearer home.

Direction of the headquarters building, Camp Grant, is being rushed to completion in time to be used by Major General Barry when he arrives to assume command of the great cantonment next Saturday. The cantonment will be ready for the arrival of the first batch of conscription men early in September. Rock county men will gather in Janesville and Beloit and other cities to receive their assignment to Camp Grant and will be taken to the cantonment and personally turned over to the war officials by the two county exemption boards.

According to a Chicago paper the drafted men assigned to the Rockford cantonment may rent temporary but not permanent homes. The families to be drafted near the camp by building company if plans announced yesterday by Chaplain Myron E. Adams, head of a committee of Fort Sheridan officers, are perfected.

Officers' Homes, Too. If carried out it will give Rockford another great temporary city. The committee is composed of Mr. Adams, Capt. W. Q. Gelliffe and Lieutenant E. N. Frakes, representing officers who recently trained at Fort Sheridan and assigned to the Rockford cantonment.

The committee also has an option on thirty acres where officers' homes will be erected.

Bridge Is Built. A bridge connecting the cantonment with the proposed site now is under construction. As many houses as necessary will be built on short streets of six houses on either side leading to the cantonment. The Bates-Rogers construction company, which is building the cantonment, has agreed to do the work rapidly on the same terms given the city.

It was necessary to organize and finance the company on a civilian basis. According to Adams, H. M. Byllesby has been elected a director of the company and it is believed he will accept.

CHESTER BREWER IS IN CHARGE OF WORK AT THE ARMY CAMPS

Assigned as Director of Athletics and Recreation for the Southern Division of the Army.

Chester Brewer, a former Janesville resident and a prominent athlete during his school days and later in the University of Wisconsin, and a student at the Michigan Agricultural College and later at the Missouri University, is in Janesville for the day. During the past few months Mr. Brewer has been stationed at Fort Sargent, San Antonio, Texas, where he holds the rank of director of athletics and recreations for the Southern division of the army. While there he has been very definitely decided upon, Mr. Brewer will have charge of all the sports and recreations in the various camps of regular, national guardsmen and the national army units that are assigned to this division for training. This will include the baseball, basketball, football, and out door activities, the gymnasium work in the permanent camps, the establishment of recreation centers, where moving picture shows and vaudeville will be furnished the soldiers, as well as the swimming pools and other healthful and entertaining amusements. The United States army officials have found that to keep up the morale of the army they are creating, they must give the soldiers something besides mere military training, hence the position which Mr. Brewer holds has been created. Until the details have been worked out as yet, the general plan has been decided upon and Mr. Brewer will have his hands full if he decides to accept a permanent assignment with the army. Last spring, before being called into the government service, he accepted the position of director of athletics at Lansing, Michigan, and Beloit, where it will finish its training for college, and at present is undecided what to do about the army work. He is spending a few days with his wife and family, who are at Lauderdale Lake for the summer.

CAPTAIN CALDWELL REJOINS COMPANY

Captain E. N. Caldwell, commander of Company M, who has been at the war college at Washington for intensive study in trench warfare and army formations, spent Monday in the city on his way to Camp Douglas, where he reported to General Boardman and doubtless assumed command of his company today until the first regiment is moved south to Waco, Texas, where it will finish its training for service in France. It is expected that Captain Caldwell will be detailed to the staff of Major General James Parker, who is assigned to the command of the thirty-second division of the army, of which the Wisconsin and Michigan troops are part. The first regiment will belong to the sixty-second infantry brigade, commanded by General Boardman. The formation of regiments and brigades are to be changed materially and it will be Captain Caldwell's duty to map out the preliminary work as mapped out by the war college to prepare for this work.

United States Government Using Doble Detroit Steam Power Plants.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found an article copied from the Detroit Free Press of August 1st, 1917. The government engineers are not making any mistakes in our present war. You can rest assured that when they set aside gasoline and other source of power to propel their vehicles it must be for a superior power. No one has ever denied the superiority of steam power. The only question was to obtain the steam in a satisfactory manner for its different applications. The General Engineers Company of Detroit have perfected a steam generator for vehicle use and is now being used by the government as well as the Doble Detroit Steam Motors Company. It is well to wait for a car that has the government stamp approval. For further information, write The Ritzer Automobile Company, Madison, Wisconsin. ## Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Ever since I can remember I have been going to the Baptist church and all of my family are Baptists. I have been married for three years and since my marriage my husband has been very insistent that I go to his church with him. He is of another religion opposed to ours and when our baby was born he took him to his church. It would hurt me very much to give up my church, because I don't like his belief, but I want to keep peace in the family with a husband I should like to do about it. MARRIED.

You are perfectly right in insisting on going to your own church, but you should not insist on your husband with you. Tell him firmly that you will not give up your church and that he must give up hope of your doing so. Since he has already taken sides and knows that there is not much you can do about that, but stick to your own church yourself since it is your right to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: In answering the telephone, what should you say first? Should you say "Hello," or repeat your number, or what?

In answering the telephone there are a good many ways that are correct. The telephone company has advised that when you take down the receiver you say, "This is main 772," or whatever your number is. It is also good form to say, "This is the Jones residence," or "Eagle Dry Goods Store," or whatever the name of the establishment is. In a small town where there are not many telephones, it is all right to take down the receiver and say, "Hello."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a young gentleman friend who comes to see me quite often. As there are not a great many places we can go in this town, he always asks me to go to a picture show with him. The picture show is quite a ways from where we live and we have to take a car and when we get off the car, he offers curious to know just how it should be done.

(1) Should the boy or the girl go first?

(2) Should he help her off the car or should he stand aside?

INQUISITIVE.

(1) The boy should get on the car last and off the car first.

(2) He should help her on the car, following her himself, and when they get off he should get off first and help her off the car.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My friend wants me to take a trip with him to Niagara Falls by boat over Lake Erie. I love to ride on the lake and this seems such a nice time of year to take a trip, but my conscience won't let me go with him, because I don't think it would be all right for me to leave the house and not have him call for me and meet him at the boat. That way people wouldn't see us. I am very anxious to know if you think it would be all right.

URGENT.

No, it would not be all right. It is just such trips as the one you are talking of that destroy the moral upbringing of young girls like you—and young men, too. Don't for a minute think seriously of going on a trip like that.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a mother of two children. My oldest boy has just begun work in an automobile factory in another town and he writes me that he isn't able to get enough to eat where he is boarding. He is paying three dollars for his meals and two dollars a week for his room. Don't you think that is enough to pay?

MOTHER.

In a factory town he ought to be able to get board and room for that, though prices are higher now than they used to be. Why doesn't he change to some other place? There must be more than one boarding house near the factory.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt will answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired, enclose a two-cent stamp.)

Never take another person's chair without relinquishing it on the person's return.

PHYLLIS: A lady may take a gentleman's arm after dark but not in the daytime. She should not take it however, unless it is offered but a gentleman should offer his arm when walking, with a lady after dark.

N. B. V.: A lady wearing several rings may, according to present custom, wear them on the third and fourth fingers that is the ring finger and the little finger. An engagement ring should always be worn on the third finger of the left hand. As good form forbids gentlemen to wear useless jewelry, only a signet ring may be worn, because on occasion it may fulfill its original purpose by acting as a seal.

I have heard it claimed that the love between father and daughter is the most touching and selfless affection in the world. But I like as much to see a father and a grown son who have passed that almost inevitable period where youth and age stormily clash, and have come into the quiet harbor of a deep and enduring friendship.

Such friendships have their beginnings in such childish adventures as I witnessed the other day. Blind indeed is the father who is too busy, too careless or too selfish to cultivate the friendship of his children before a wall of formality and restraint and self-consciousness has grown up between them.

He has heard his country calling, and has fallen into line. And he is doing something bigger than his daddy ever did. He has caught a greater vision than the finest one of mine. And I know today I'm prouder of him than I was of the kid.

His speech is soft and vibrant with the message of truth. And he says some things of duty that I cannot understand. It may be that I'm selfish, but this ending of his youth is not the dream I cherished and it's not the thing I planned.

I only know he's bigger in his uniform today. Than I, who stand and watch him as he drills, have ever been. That he sees a greater vision of life's purpose far away. And a finer goal to die for than my eyes have ever seen.

I wish I felt as he does, wish I had his sense of right; With the vision he possesses I should be supremely glad; But I sometimes start to choking when I think of him at night— The boy that has grown bigger, yes, and better than his dad.

Marshmallow Wafers—One-half cup sugar and one-fourth cup water cooked together until it spins a thread. Add five marshmallows cut in pieces. Do not stir. Pour slowly into stiffly beaten white of one egg, beating constantly. Add one-half cup nut meats if you wish, spread mixture on wafers and brown in slow oven.

Devil's Food Cake—Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup lard and butter, two eggs beaten separately, one-half cup sour milk with one-half teaspoon baking soda, two and one-half cups flour with two teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup boiling water, one cake chocolate.

The Business of Living

The People of the Grange Find a Traitor in Their Midst

"We had the most exciting time at the Grange tonight," Aunt Laura said into a chair and reached for a palmleaf fan.

"Tell us about it," Eleanor had remained sitting on the porch with the children.

"You know Mrs. Marshall was asked to provide a speaker for the evening. She got a Mrs. Jones from town to come out and deliver a lecture on Red Cross work. It was real interesting and after she had finished her remarks she proposed that we close the exercises by singing the Star Spangled Banner and then giving a salute to the flag. You have not seen the fine new flag that the Grange ladies have made. It is nine feet long and makes a fine show in front of the room. Well while we were singing I looked around and saw Jason Snedley sitting there as straight as a ramrod looking around defiantly at the people who turned to look at him in surprise. When the song was finished we gave the salute but except Jason. His wife was not there. Old Mrs. Jones leaned over and asked in an audible whisper, 'Are you asleep, Jason?' We are saluting the flag but he did not stir of course. This aside called everybody's attention to the fact that Jason was acting peculiarly, and when we had finished the salute several turned to him and asked, 'What is the matter, Jason?' Then Jason stood up and said:

"I did not salute the flag because it is against my principles. I am not in sympathy with this war and the attitude the government has taken in the matter, and the flag stands for the government, therefore I cannot salute the flag."

Well, you could have heard a pin drop; everyone was so astonished that no one moved for some minutes. He stood staring at the group of people around him in a defiant manner.

"You don't mean that you are a traitor to your country?" said Mary who was standing beside me.

"I mean that the government stands for things I do not approve of. In fact I am opposed to the things the president has pledged himself to—"

"An angry buzz began to be heard in the group that surrounded the man and I was afraid of trouble. I thought I would try and pour oil on the troubled waters."

"I suppose you mean you are opposed to war and do not think that we had sufficient cause to declare war on Germany, though how anyone could think that is past seeing, but the president has declared war and now one can withhold his support to a nation that has protected and enriched him. You are not a German sympathizer, are you, Jason?" I said.

"I do not sympathize with any government, if anyone wants to know what I believe I will tell him at any time that is set. I claim the right of free speech even if I believe things that the rest of you call treasonable. And with that he turned and left the hall."

Aunt Laura suspended the agitation of the fan which she had not ceased to play during her talk. "I wish you could have heard the indignation buzz that followed his exit. It was like a hive of disturbed hornets."

"Well, I do not wonder; what all the man?" asked Eleanor.

"He's queer," I've always known that, but I never dreamed he would go so far. I was afraid one while they would go after him and do some damage. Aunt Laura settled back in her chair and resumed her fanning.

"What will the people do about it?" asked Eleanor. "They will not let this pass unnoticed, I hope."

No, indeed. There is ever so many plans on foot to make him see their displeasure. Some want to turn him out of the Grange."

"I hope they will," offered Mary, who had been putting away her fan, but I never dreamed of that. I do feel for his poor wife and children. That poor woman has no pleasure in life except coming to the Grange meetings and his children are queer enough. God knows, without being tainted with treason."

"Poor woman! It is too bad," sighed Aunt Laura. "I cannot tell what will be done, but certainly the Grange can not allow treasonable talks in its meetings."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Heat Prostration

Sunstroke or heat prostration is by no means as common as news items would lead us to imagine, this hot weather. Whenever a victim succumbs to apoplexy, uremia, heart failure, fainting or alcoholism, during the warm spell, the word goes out that General Humidity has got another victim.

With dry heat evaporation of perspiration is more rapid, and the body is kept cooled. And in dry communities alcohol is notoriously more popular. Of course the man who resorts to alcohol for purposes of cooling off or warming up is much more liable to heat prostration, sunstroke, pneumonia or bankruptcy than the man who depends upon good old hydrogen monoxide.

Kidney disease, weak heart, constipation, insufficient sleep and foolish clothing are contributing causes of heat prostration. By foolish clothing we do not refer particularly to the furs affected by fashionable ladies during the warm spell; but rather to the surmounting layers of a man draped around with him all the time. In a hot wave a man's trousers, especially if he is a stout man, depend chiefly upon his belt; he pants for a good part of his life, but he is too vain to wear them.

Heat exhaustion and heat stroke are widely different conditions. In heat exhaustion the victim is pale, breathes in a shallow manner, skin covered with clammy sweat, pulse very weak, mind dull—in fact, the symptoms are the same as in fainting or shock. In heat or sun stroke the face is flushed, skin hot and dry, pulse hard and bounding, breathing stertorous (snoring), and the patient unconscious—as in one with a stroke of paralysis (apoplexy). The first aid for heat exhaustion is stimulation, as with aromatic spirits of ammonia. The first aid for sunstroke or heat stroke is ice or cold to head and cold friction bathing.

Warning signs of a threatened heat exhaustion are just faintness and perhaps nausea. Warning symptoms of sunstroke or heatstroke are dizziness or blurring of vision and headache. Heatstroke or heat exhaustion may occur in the night as well as in the daytime, if the weather is very oppressive.

The one great preventative of heat prostration is the free drinking of cold water. Frequent drinks are better than occasional big drinks, although there is no sound reason why a thirsty person should not drink to satisfaction when he can have drinks only at our health. Lemonade or lemon juice is useful as a preventative when plain water is not available.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Varicose Veins Wherever

I am 35 years of age and for many years have suffered with varicose veins caused by a saddle. My work keeps me on my feet ten hours a day, and the long hours of standing seem to be telling on me physically and nervous system as well. Have tried most everything, and the only relief I can get is by going to bed for a few days. I have always avoided operation, as I deem it against nature. Am married and have three children. What shall I do?

ANSWER.—Varicose or enlarged veins anywhere—in the legs, in the form of piles, or in the form of varicose veins cannot be cured and need not be endured. It is not against nature to have the operation. On the contrary, you will be more efficient and happy in your health afterward. At any rate, there is no other cure known.

Skin eruptions and the Recruit

Kindly tell me whether psoriasis with lesions distributed over the body and only a few on the face, would bar a man from enlistment? Also whether or not psoriasis would prevent passing the physical examination as a recruit.

ANSWER.—As to the psoriasis, I think not. As to the physical not up to the standards of the army, it is an unusually noticeable blemish. One often sees young soldiers with acne on the face.

High Blood Pressure

What is the cause of high blood pressure? How may it be reduced in the case of a man fifty-nine years old with a blood pressure of 180? What should it be normally for him? Is exercise harmful in such a condition?

(W. A. C.)

ANSWER.—Overeating, tobacco and alcohol abuse, Bright's disease, heart disease, arterio-sclerosis, chronic lead poisoning, syphilis and advancing age are common causes of excessive blood pressure. Treatment depends upon the individual conditions. Diet is usually important—Karelling is excellent, or join the Bread and Milk Club. The average man of that age the pressure should be 135 to 145. Walking and other moderate exercises like golf, tend to lower such high blood pressure, but this should be prescribed by your doctor.

Fathers and Children

The other day on the trolley I saw a little group that set my heart singing.

It was just a father and his two boys, but they were evidently going off for some kind of a picnic together and they were having such a happy time. The youngsters were screwing around to look out of the window and laughing and chattering. And it was "Oh father, this is such a nice place" and "This is just what I need" and "The biggest boy of all wasn't having the least jolly time."

The Gold Mines in His Pockets

I could just visualize them reaching their destination and seeing father dig his hands into those trousers pockets that seem to you a gold mine without bottom, and digging over nickles and dimes galore for popcorn and dishing horses and chewing gum and Ferris Wheels.

Such a happy day, such a great adventure as they were going to have!

And so many fathers there are who seldom if ever go on such adventures. What a lot they do miss! Mothers and Children Are Nearly Always Close

The relation of mothers and children is more or less the same in most families (except the wealthier ones) and just naturally has to be pretty close. With fathers and children on the other hand, the relationship varies with temperament of the father and the custom of the family, from a casual speaking acquaintance to a close and tender sympathy. And the latter class is much the rarer. But when it does exist it is one of the most beautiful relations in life. The Beautiful Friendship of Father and Son

Smith saw what she meant; saw, also, whereunto his wretched fate was dragging him. It was the newest of all the refinements, the one which had begun with Jibbey's silent hand-clasp the night before, which prompted him to say:

"If they should ask you about me, you must tell them the truth, Verda." Her smile was mildly scornful.

"Is that what the plain-faced little ranch person would do?" she asked.

"I don't know; yes, I guess it is."

"Doesn't she care any more for you than that?"

Smith did not reply. He was standing where he could watch the couplings and goings of the elevators. Time was precious and he was chafing at the delay, but Miss Richlander was not yet ready to let him go.

"Tell me honestly, Montague," she said, "is it anything more than a case of propriety with this Baldwin girl—on your part, I mean."

"It isn't anything," he returned soberly. "Conceal Baldwin will never marry any man who has so much to explain as I have."

"You didn't know this was her home when you came out here?"

"No."

"But you had met her somewhere before you came?"

"Once, yes. It was in Guthrieville, over a year ago. I met her there at a house where she was visiting."

"I see," she nodded, and then, with out warning, "What was the matter with you last night—about dinner time?"

"Why should you think there was anything the matter with me?"

Constantly recurring suffering gives women "the blues." Comparatively few women realize that despondency, together with backache, headache, and that "dragging-down" feeling indicate some derangement of the female organs, for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remedy.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair; that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any drugstore) in a cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fullness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.

"I was out driving with the Stantons when I came back to the hotel I found Colonel Baldwin and another man—lawyer. I think he was—waiting for me. They said you were needing a friend who could go and talk to you and—'calm you down,' was the phrase the lawyer used. I was good-natured enough to go with them, but when we reached your offices you had gone, and the ranch girl was there alone, waiting for her father."

"That was nonsense!" he commented; "their going after you as if I were a maniac or a drunken man, I mean. This time Miss Richlander's smile."
